Title: Overview of Analysis Strategy on Handling Missing at Random Data and Estimand

Speaker: Bidan Huang, Sr. Director at AbbVie

Free event, but registration is needed via this link:

https://us06web.zoom.us/webinar/register/WN_B6f0deD-SeOrIKmdPWh_CA

Abstract: Missing values inevitably occur in almost all clinical trials. Reasons for missingness may vary. The understanding of the missing data pattern and missing data mechanisms are fundamental and crucial when discussing the use of any methods that deal with missing data. Overview of analysis strategies when dealing with missing at random (MAR) data based on the type of endpoints (continuous, binary, and time to event) and recommendations are provided under MAR assumptions depending on the originally proposed analysis methods, along with some SAS code. Strategies dealing with missing due to MNAR will be briefly discussed. It is also important to distinguish missing data and estimand under the estimand framework outlined in the ICH E9 R1 addendum.
